

ZON, a pay TV and internet provider has selected Ericsson as its consulting, systems integration and managed services partner to operate and maintain its data centers.

Under the two year contract, Ericsson is responsible for optimising the operational performance of ZON's information systems and information technologies.

Under the agreement, Ericsson assumes responsibility for the daily operation and maintenance of ZON's data centers, including hardware, software, operating systems, databases, backups and storage.

Additionally, Ericsson will act as a consultant and systems integration partner, contributing to the optimisation of IT processes specifically, through the conception and definition of a services catalogue and use of industry standards such as the information technology infrastructure library.
