

Manish Dawar has been appointed as the new chief financial officer (CFO) of Vodafone India.

His appointment will become effective from January 2018. Dawar, will report to Sunil Sood, director and CEO of Vodafone India. He will take over CFO position from Thomas Reisten, who has been Vodafone India's CFO for past four years. Reisten is expected to get another senior posting within the parent group.

He is also likely to serve as the CFO of merged entity for Idea Cellular and Vodafone India. As per the agreement with Idea Cellular, Vodafone has the rights on deciding the CFO of the merged entity.

Prior to the appointment, Dawar served as CFO of Den Networks. In the past, he has also worked as CFO of Konkala Resources (Vedanta Group) and senior vice president-group controller Reckitt Benckiser in UK. He has also worked with Hindustan Unilever.
