

Tata Consultancy Services has won a contract for establishing and managing the State Data Centre (SDC) for the state of Karnataka. The SDC is expected to enhance the infrastructure required to consolidate the state level applications and will be interoperable with the existing infrastructure.

TCS has been associated with the Center for e-Governance, for the last five years. M.N. Vidyashankar, Principal Secretary, e-Governance Department, Government of Karnataka states, "TCS has emerged the winner in the transparent bidding process to set up the State Data Center to enhance the infrastructure required for the consolidation of state level applications. The new data center will come up in Vikas Soudha, and our existing data center will become a Disaster Recovery Center. We will migrate all the applications from the existing SDC to the new one". He further added, "E-governance is the only good road to good governance and while technology is expensive, not using technology is even more expensive".
